TRAVEL IN Vintage Style

From its dark blue livery to its original, individually-made chrome work to its spacious rear stowage compartment, complete with a luggage set done in the same tan leather as the interior, this 1956 Mercedes-Benz 300Sc Coupe is a picture of class and function.

Collectors will appreciate this rare post-War offering by the Mercedes-Benz factory. As one of only 98 fuel-injected 300Sc Coupes ever produced by the company, it was delivered new to the United States, a scarcity for the 300Sc, and has spent the vast majority of its life since in Southern California. Despite being in nice original condition, the car is fresh off a four-year, no-expenses-spared concours restoration where every component was rebuilt and restored.

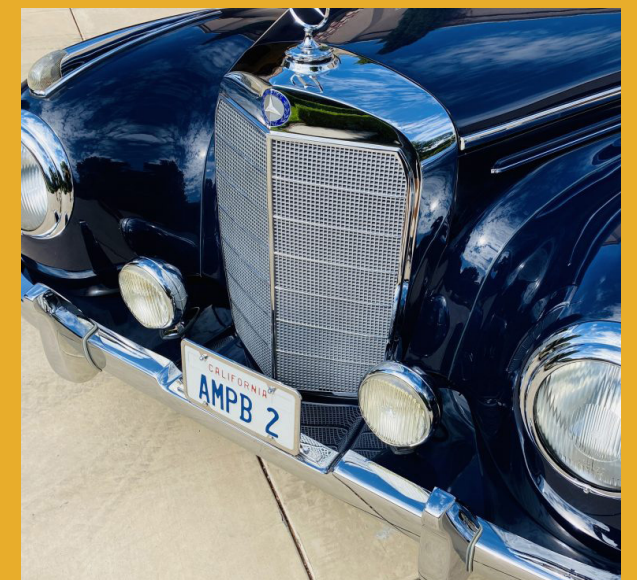

If you're intrigued by spirited, long-distance touring — as well as the prospect of displaying a never-before-shown classic stunner at its first-ever concours event — we think this car may be the one for you.
